

Science Bits wins 2014 Edtech Digest Cool Tool Awards to Best Content Provider Solution

March 20, 2014. We're proud to announce Science Bits has been awarded the 2014 Edtech Digest Cool Tool Awards to Best Content Provider Solution. The distinguished awards program recognizes outstanding solutions—and the best and brightest minds—in education and technology. A distinguished panel of industry influencers and veterans conducted this year's evaluation proceedings. "With top talent and quality in so many corners, it wasn't an easy selection process, but we are shining a spotlight on some of the best and brightest tools, leaders and trendsetters pushing forward today's education revolution for the benefit of future generations," said Victor Rivero, who oversees the program as Editor in Chief of Edtech Digest. "It's always nice to receive accolades from edtech leaders in recognition of our contribution to science teaching and edtech. Also, we'd like to use this opportunity to congratulate this year's finalists and winners for their hard work and dedication in planting the seeds for promoting new technologies in education" said Ariadna Álvarez, director of Science Bits.